

CHAPTER 2

Part V. From the Marginal Questions

1. What danger can you foresee if people base their decisions only upon their conscience – letting “their consciences be their guide”? _____

2. Is believing in a ‘creatorless’ creation reasonable or unreasonable. Why? _____

3. What great difference is there between believing that all things are controlled by a personal God or by impersonal, natural forces? _____

4. If a person believes that God spoke to him in a dream, but the instruction in his dream contradicts the teachings of the Bible, which is he to believe and obey? Why?

5. What security is lost by those who deny the truth that the divinely-inspired canon is closed?
